Dear Mary,

Thank you for taking a moment to route this. I'm seeking the President's review of a straightforward issue:

- Order: #1080540 — $268, not yet shipped
- Request: Cancellation before shipment (or, alternatively, a goodwill remedy)

I recognize policies exist, but this is a small matter with an outsized reputational downside. Several peer brands (AG, True Religion, PAIGE, Citizens of Humanity, J Brand) offer brief cancellation windows or broader return flexibility. 7 For All Mankind's stricter stance has left me without a simple path to resolve an honest mistake.

To close this quietly and amicably, I'm happy with any of the following:

1. Cancel & refund the $268 (preferred),
2. Cancel & issue a goodwill credit/discount for future use, or
3. Ship as a one-time gift (no charge), if cancellation is operationally difficult at this point.

Any of these would be a fair outcome and far less costly than continued back-and-forth on a $268 purchase for a multi-million-dollar global brand. My only goal is to resolve this reasonably and move on.

I've prepared a brief backgrounder comparing peer policies in case comms/IR would like context; of course, my preference is a quiet goodwill resolution rather than broader attention.

If you could place this on the President's desk and let me know which option you approve, I'd be grateful. I'm available immediately should you need order details or verification.

Warm regards,
