Hello 7ForAllManking Team,

I am writing to cancel my order #1050840, placed on September 24, 2025.

Your “no cancellation” policy was not presented in a clear and conspicuous manner during the checkout process. Instead, it appears only on a separate FAQ page. According to the Federal Trade Commission’s online disclosure guidance, material terms must be “clear and conspicuous” at the point where the customer makes their purchasing decision. Burying such a restriction in an FAQ does not meet that standard, and therefore it was not part of our agreement.

Because the restriction was not properly disclosed, it is unenforceable. I am therefore exercising my right to cancel and request a full refund to my original method of payment.

Please confirm my cancellation and refund within two business days. If I do not receive confirmation, I will dispute the charge with my payment provider and submit complaints to the FTC and my state Attorney General for unfair or deceptive business practices.

Thank you for your prompt attention to this matter.

Sincerely,
Charles William Kinslow, IV, J.D., C.P.A.

Hi Charles,

Thank you for reaching out. Once an order has been submitted and confirmed, it is immediately dropped into our system for processing. At that point, it is not possible for us to cancel it. This is not something we can “override” or “pause”—we simply do not have that ability.

As clearly stated in our FAQ, the processing window is extremely limited, which is exactly why cancellations are not offered. Our FAQ is available on our website for the convenience of all customers and is meant to address questions like this before placing an order.

Please also keep in mind that all orders require 2–4 business days to process before shipping, and as you selected Ground shipping, the transit time is 1–12 business days. If, once received, the items are not to your liking and they are eligible, you’re more than welcome to return them at no cost within the contiguous United States.

We appreciate your understanding of this policy.

Thank you,
Kristy

Then apply a discount for the inconvenience or I'll proceed with the actions outlined in my previous email. And you'll lose more than the cost of my order. This policy is unconscionable and while I may be one customer, the FTC, BBB, and state authorities take these matters very seriously. I have a lot of free time, and I'm very effective when I channel my energy into singular endeavors. I'm sure we'll be in touch.

Chase

If you had taken the time to read my email, you would have quickly realized that the manner in which this policy is disclosed is insufficient per case law and regulations. You can't just stand on a policy because you published it somewhere. There are rules and you've violated them.

Hi Charles,

Please note that all discounts and promotional codes must be applied at the time of checkout, and we're unable to adjust orders once they've been submitted.

If you'd like, we invite you to sign up for our mailing list on the website—you'll receive early access to upcoming sales and exclusive promotion codes, along with a welcome offer you can apply to a future order.

In the meantime, please remember, if you are not fully satisfied with your purchase, you're always welcome to return it free of charge for a full refund.

Please let us know if there is anything else we can help with.

Thank you,
Kristy

In the mean time, I'll be contacting my bank to stop payment, speaking with the FTC to start the process of filing a complaint, and speaking with others you'll hear from. In the interim, give me the contact information of a superior who actually values their customers and understands the ramifications of what I've told you I intend on doing.

Dear Charles,

Please note that your order was placed on the evening of September 24, 2025. Shortly after, you inquired about the estimated shipping timeline. As communicated, our standard processing time is 2–4 business days prior to shipment via the selected ground shipping method. This information is clearly stated on our checkout page, along with direct links to our Shipping Policy.

Regarding your follow-up inquiry about canceling the order, we would like to reiterate that our cancellation policy is outlined in our FAQs. Once an order has been submitted, it cannot be modified or canceled. While we always strive to accommodate requests when possible, our window to do so is extremely limited.

At the time your cancellation request was received—the afternoon following your order placement—the order had already entered processing for shipment. Due to system automations, cancellations could no longer be made at that stage. We advised at that time that, once shipped, you are welcome to return the item under our free return shipping policy.

Your order shipped on the evening of September 25, 2025, via FedEx. The tracking number is:
9261290360436526228011.

As a one-time exception, we have submitted a return request for your package. A refund has already been processed, and you can expect to see the funds reflected in your account within 3–7 business days, depending on your credit card provider.

Thank you,

Thank you,
Nicole

Hello,

As the method of payment used for this order was ShopPay Installments, you received a refund for the amount that was charged. Again, if there are any true pending charges, depending on the credit holder, this can take 3-7 business days to settle and reflect on your statement.

Thank you,
Nicole
