Statement of Complaint: On June 11, 2026, I purchased a "Claude Pro" premium subscription from Anthropic PBC utilizing the Affirm credit facility. The transaction details are as follows:

- Invoice Number: OONHWA AV-0030
- Receipt Number: 2962-7668-7598
- Amount Paid: $221.98
- Payment Method: Affirm Credit Facility

Shortly after this transaction, my account was compromised by an unauthorized third-party hacker (part of a broader breach affecting my accounts on other platforms). On June 28, 2026, I received an automated email from Anthropic stating my account was suspended due to an "internal investigation of suspicious signals" allegedly violating their Usage Policy. Anthropic subsequently downgraded my account to the free tier, completely revoking the premium access I had already purchased.

Anthropic intentionally restricts its customer support to an automated chatbot, deliberately preventing consumers from reaching a human representative to resolve disputes. Consequently, beginning June 30, 2026, I emailed several Anthropic executives directly, reciting these facts and requesting either account restoration or a refund. Despite multiple follow-up emails, I have received zero response.

In summary, Anthropic PBC processed my payment for premium services, arbitrarily suspended and downgraded the account due to a third-party security breach, and deliberately ignored my grievances by hiding behind automated gatekeepers. Retaining customer funds while actively denying the paid service—coupled with the constructive foreclosure of support access—unequivocally constitutes an unfair and deceptive business practice.

Desired Resolution: Immediate restoration of the paid premium account for the duration of the billing cycle, or a full refund of the subscription fee, plus a formal explanation regarding the handling of this security breach detailing the exact means and methods used to conclusively tie "suspicious signals" to actions taken on my part as opposed to an unauthorized IP address geolocation.
